Bev Rosen ~ The Jones Falls: The Giant That Created Baltimore and Almost Did Her In

Thursday, June 5, 2025 1:00 PM at Senior Box Office

The Jones Falls is a waterway that has been through centuries of change, urbanization, industrialization, and ecological recovery. It has always been a barrier dividing the city, It was useful at times and a nuisance at times. Yet, without the Jones Falls, there would never have been our earliest transportation center making us an industrial and immigration giant and the second largest city in the U.S. in the mid-1850's. As you will learn, it was a fortuitous firebreak in the Great Fire of 1904, saving East Baltimore, but its flooding and health hazards forced the popular idea of burying it in 1915 partially under the Fallsway. In 1962, the Jones Falls Expressway was routed along the Jones Falls and built atop of the Fallsway, further cementing the Falls reputation as a barrier. This presentation will flush out the details of this enormous history and changes of this one little river.
