Holiday Season	TRAIN GARDENS: Holiday Train Gardens Holiday train gardens have been a tradition in Baltimore, particularly in firehouses, since the late 1800s. Until the 1950s, every firehouse in Baltimore displayed its train garden throughout December and into the beginning of January. Many firehouses gradually stopped doing displays as their work and hours changed. Today, there are only a handful of firehouses that have train gardens, but many people and venues display train gardens maintaining the tradition. For a comprehensive listing of local train gardens, both free and with admission charge, https://wvmgrs.org/articles/traingardens/	Various locations
